If you spend a lot of money on an XK Jaguar Roadster, regarded as the most desirable XK, you might win a

Concours or two or you could go further and carry out a 3 year restoration at Sleeping Beauties in Queensland, which would cost 450k plus the donor car, in today's money, and end up with this absolutely stunning XK150 Roadster, which is as good to drive as it is to look at. The comprehensive file on this car documents a 336k restoration by Sleeping Beauty, plus the cost of the donor car, ten years ago.

The then owner chose to have a number of modern improvements fitted to the car when it was restored, including a Tremec T5 gearbox, EZ electric power steering, an all aluminum radiator with electric cooling fans, modern air conditioning and a Retrosound radio. He also chose to have the car upgraded to 'S' spec and when you open the bonnet you immediately notice the triple carburetor set up. The car also features "race bucket seats" which are also a rare and desirable.

The most recent owner of the car has continued to improve it, with Vic Spiteri completing additional major works, in particular electronic ignition providing vastly improved performance. It has also recently had a Sonax Ceramic Coating.

The car is accompanied by a Heritage Certificate, a thick file of restoration receipts, photos of the restoration, an owner's manual, a tonneau cover, a jack and a tool kit.

The astute purchaser will look at this car and recognize that it represents great value as one of the best XK Roadsters available, offering a huge saving over its cost to its last owner.
