Dealer Comments

The CX-3 is the best-selling variant in Mazda Australia's newly revised compact SUV range, and for good reason, compared with other SUVs, this is a fun, entertaining and - dare we say it - enjoyable car to drive.

Approaching the CX-3 as a small hatchback on stilts, Mazda has toppled direct rivals thanks to surprising admirable levels of steering feel, balance and body control.

The MacPherson strut front/torsion beam rear suspension is delicately poised through corners, teaming nicely with electrically-assisted power steering.

The small 4.2 metre-long footprint is belied by a planted and secure stance on country roads, with the CX-3 shaking off niggles and larger washouts superbly. Light steering and ease of outward vision ease the burden of driving in the city.
